A CHURCH TO BUILD

MEMBERS OF FIRST METHODIST SEE NEED OF MODERN PLANT.

CONFERENCE TO DECIDE

At A Meeting of Men Last Night A Number of Activities Were Planned For Coming Winter.

With Sunday school classes crowded for room, with church membership increasing and with activities making demand for additional space, members of the First M. E. church are considering plans for an addition to the present structure, or perhaps, an entire new building to take the place of the old one. At a meeting last night of the men of the church, the proposal to either take an insurance policy or to create a sinking fund for building purposes was discussed, with the result that final decision of the matter will await the meeting of the quarterly conference.

It was decided that the annual game supper given by the men, with the ladies as guests, would be held in December, the date to be announced later, together with the variety of game that will be served. Plans for a meeting of men and boys of the church were also discussed, the former to be hosts, and an event of this nature will be given some time the last of this month or the first of December.

A plan to organize the Bible class of the Sunday school into small units, ten or twelve men in a class, being the number favored, will be worked out during the coming week. Following the meeting a light luncheon was served.

The matter of building a new church edifice is weighing heavily with the members of the congregation, it being almost a consensus of opinion that more modern facilities are needed to care for the growing classes of children and young men and young women, as well as more room for their accommodation.

The members are not so much concerned with funds with which to build whatever is most needed, but with how to build so that all interests of the church will be aided and conserved. Definite plans will be laid before the coming quarterly conference.

HEAR SCHOOL MEN TONIGHT

Meeting of Business Men and Educators at Elks Club Will Be Largely Attended.

Reservations of seats may be had by calling the Commercial Club.

The following speakers will be heard:

"A Maryville Investment—The Public Schools," Superintendent J. M. McDonald.

Maulding's orchestra will furnish music for the occasion.

VISITED AT CAMP FUNSTON

Jos. Jackson, Jr., and Other Members of Party Spent Sunday With Nodaway County Boys.

Nodaway county boys who are at Camp Funston are getting down to the business of learning the art of war with all preliminaries eliminated. Jos. Jackson, Jr., cashier of the First National bank, drove to the camp Sunday in company with three other Maryville men and spent most of the day visiting with the boys.

"It's a wonderful place, said Mr. Jackson this morning. "Everybody is busy and some sort of activity is seen on every hand. Even on Sunday building was gonig on, trenches were being dug and the business of taking care of over 45,000 men was being prosecuted with dispatch."

Mr. Jackson said that with few exceptions the boys were quite comfortable despite the fact that the barracks had not yet been equipped with heating plants. Most of them, he said, were well supplied with blankets and warm clothing and all were in good spirits. "There were a few," said Mr. Jackson, "who talked like they might be a little homesick."

"We had no trouble in gaining access to all parts of the camp, and no permits being necessary and we were shown every courtesy. The camp was filled with visitors, thousands having come to see relatives and friends. It was strange to see no women there, however, for they are barred only by very special permission."

"The roads through Kansas were good and the trip was a pleasant one." Other members of the party were Dr. F. R. Anthony, Roy Curfman and F. W. Crow.

DEATH OF AN OLD VETERAN

Silas Appleby, 78 Years Old Was A Member of the 142nd Illinois Infantry.

Silas Appleby died at 8 o'clock last night at his home 1116 East Cooper street, following a four weeks' illness of a complication of diseases.

Mr. Appleby would have been 78 years old had he lived until October 27. He is survived by his wife, three children, one sister and two brothers. His children are: Elmer Appleby, who is with the United States army, in France, Arthur Appleby of Casper, Wyo., and Mrs. George Liston of Maryville. One brother, Emerson Appleby lives in Maryville, Leonard Appleby is in LuVerne, Minn., and his sister, Mrs. Melissa Myers is in Fresno, Calif.

Mr. Appleby was born in Cayuga county, New York, and lived there until he was twelve years old, when he moved with his parents to Illinois. He came to Nodaway county about forty-one years ago. He was a Civil War veteran, belonging to the 142nd Illinois infantry.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the First Baptist church, the Rev. T. H. Wiles officiating.

Boys Heard Schumann-Heink.

John Mutz, a member of the third contingent to go to Camp Funston writes the Democrat-Forum that the boys there were entertained by Madame Schumann-Heink, famous singer. A concert at the Knights of Columbus building drew a capacity audience and the boys in khaki voted it a great treat. Schumann-Heink is visiting her son, Ferdinand C. Schumann, private in headquarters company at Camp Funston.

Miss Jetta P. Dwigans, state representative for the Spirella Corset Company, has been visiting with Mrs. Henry Cook, 221 West Third street.

PREPARE EXHIBITS

SCHOOL CHILDREN GET READY FOR NOVEMBER CORN SHOW.

ENTRIES STILL COMING

War Bread Baking Demonstrations This Week By Government Expert Arouses Much Interest.

In response to letters to teachers and school patrons from Superintendent Bert Cooper, manager of the November corn show and domestic science contests, enrollments are coming in rapidly and a larger exhibit is promised this year than ever shown here. The demonstrations of war bread making by Miss Leta Gray, government expert, to be held at Highland and the Knabb schools next Friday and at the First Methodist church on Saturday afternoon have aroused much interest. Superintendent Cooper and the other members of the committee are enthusiastic over the prospects for a big display this year. The letter referred to says:

"We desire to make the corn growing contest and the domestic science contest for this year the largest they have ever been. I believe you will do your part. Have every girl, boy, young woman and young man in your district who is between the ages of ten and twenty years fill out a blank. It does not matter whether they are in school or not, have them enroll and bring an exhibit. Pupils who enrolled last spring need not enroll again.

"No enrollments will be received after October 26. All exhibits must be brought to the Normal October 31 or before noon November 1.

"All boys and girls competing in the acre yield contest should write me for rules for gathering the corn and certifying the yield. This corn is to be husked between November 10 and 20 and a sworn statement mailed to me upon proper blanks which I will furnish upon application.

"Persons entering exhibits in the general classes or Farmers' and Corn Breeders' contest do not need to enroll but all exhibits must be brought to the Normal building or sent prepaid to Bert Cooper, Maryville, Mo., that they may be entered October 31 or before noon November 1. The Corn Breeders' contest is open to the state. All corn not reserved in this class, as specified in the catalogue, will be sold at auction Saturday afternoon, November 3. Boys may retain their corn this year if they so desire.

"The contest promises to be the best in the history of the organization and will be held in connection with a joint Teachers' association.

"Be sure to enter the war bread contest."

With the state Sunday school convention to be held in Maryville next month, the committee in charge is able to announce a few of the speakers who will be heard, men and women of nation wide reputation in Sunday school and business circles. Those who have already given assurance that they will appear on the program together with the subject assigned are as follows:

"Some Childhood's Rights," by Mrs. Maude Junkin Baldwin, of Chicago, chief elementary specialist.

"The Value of Art in Religious Education," by Samuel E. Gibson, well known Des Moines business man.

"Making Good in the Christian Life," by Rev. W. S. Abernathy, D. D., of Kansas City.

"The Enemy Under the Flag, John Barleycorn," Mrs. Nellie Burger, of Clark, Mo.

"The Sunday School and World Democracy," Dr. W. Chalmers, of Philadelphia.

"The Evolution of the Rural Community," by Mrs. Harvey.

As an indication of what Mexico, Mo., thought of the convention, that city having entertained the delegates last year, J. C. Munday, secretary of the North Missouri Trust Co., writes:

"I think our people were more than satisfied with the convention. Do not remember any convention that our business men were so unanimous in giving towards and congratulate your city in having an opportunity to entertain the convention. We certainly had a fine bunch of people with us that week and our entire citizenship seemed to enjoy their visit."

WILSON RAPS PEACE TALK

Tells Conference to Educate People on Causes of War That Democracy Is at Stake.

Washington, Oct. 9. — Americans who are discussing early peace with Germany forget that it would mean crushing the democratic ideals for which the United States has always stood for, said President Wilson to the organizers of a patriotic educational movement who called at the White House.

He said the only way to end the war is by complete victory of the nation's representing those ideals over Germany's doctrine of force.

Many people, said the president, are inclined to let their thoughts on the causes and principles underlying the war wander into byways, and forget that the main reason the United States is at war is to defeat a government which threatens even the existence of democracy.

MOTHER WON SON'S PAROLE

Cleve Cornett, Fined for Giving Drink of Whiskey, is Given A Stay of Execution.

The fact that he had a mother, crippled and dependent on him for support won a parole for Cleve Cornett, a young man found guilty this morning in police court with giving away liquor. Young Cornett was approached yesterday morning by a man who declared he was cold and in need of a drink; a bottle was forthcoming from his hip pocket and a short time later the strong arm of the law had him in charge. Cornett made no attempt to sell the booze, but offered it in a friendly way to the "sufferer." Mayor Robey fined him $300 and withheld punishment pending good behavior, which includes refraining from drink or associating with persons who do, and keeping at work. The parole was at the recommendation of Officer Eph Tilton, who made the arrest, and the city attorney.

Eph Cummins, also arrested last night by Officer Tilton, pleaded guilty this morning in police court to selling and was fined $300 and costs. He was remanded to jail when he was unable to pay the fine.

WILL NODAWAY DO IT

NEAR THREE QUARTER MILLION LIBERTY LOAN APPORTIONMENT.

NINE COUNTIES NAMED

This County Is Accredited With Being By Far the Richest in Northwest Part of State.

You are undertaking a great duty. The heart of the whole country is with you. Everything that you do will be watched with the deepest interest and with the deepest solicitude not only by those who are near and dear to you but by the whole Nation besides, for this great war draws us all together. —From President Wilson's address to the soldiers of the National Army.

The people of Nodaway county are called on to subscribe $757,200 to the second Liberty Loan, that being the apportionment made by the executive committee for the campaign in this district from the headquarters of the western Missouri division in Kansas City. Nine counties in Northwest Missouri are included in this district, the following table showing the apportionment of each:

Andrew	267,700
Atchison	299,500
Buchanan	4,003,000
Clinton	422,100
DeKalb	223,400
Gentry	312,600
Holt	381,700
Nodaway	757,200
Worth	114,200
Total	$6,781,400

The quota for the Liberty Loan is based in every instance on bank deposits.

For the second time since the United States entered the great world war, Uncle Sam is saying to the American citizen:

"Lend me a few dollars. With the money I will win the war and thus insure the preservation of your liberty and freedom. I will pay the money back, will pay interest at the rate of 4 per cent and, in addition, you will be making the safest investment in the world."

The special significance in the figures given in the apportionment is that Nodaway is accredited the richest by far among the counties of this part of the state, its wealth being nearly double that of any adjoining county.

"It's up to us to 'show 'em' that we are and to prove our loyalty," said a business man this morning. "We have done our part in every other cause and feel that Nodaway can do even better and make it an even three quarters of a million."

A DEAL IN REALTY

N. SCHUMACHER & SONS PURCASE MAIN STREET CORNER.

OCCUPANTS 20 YEARS

New Owners Will Remodel Building to Suit Demands of Constantly Increasing Business.

One of the largest deals in business property in Maryville in some time was consummated today when N. Schumacher & Sons, grocers, purchased from Mrs. Mary and Frank Buhler, the property at the corner of Main and Second street. The deal has been pending for some time, but papers from one of the non-resident owners, Frank W. Buhler, whose home is in Philadelphia, were delayed. Members of the firm stated today that the building would be remodeled to meet the demands of their constantly increasing trade.

The Schumachers have occupied the building for the past twenty years and while proposals were made on one or two former occasions to purchase it, it was not until a recent visit here of Mr. Buhler, that the offer was definitely considered.

Body to Be Brought Here.

The body of James Stacy, who died this morning at his home in Falls City, Neb., will arrive in Maryville tomorrow noon, accompanied by Mrs. Stacy, and will be taken at once to the cemetery, where a short service will be held, the Rev. T. H. Wiles officiating. Mr. Stacy is well known in Maryville, having been a former resident.

IS GERMANY TIRED?

HEAR HUNS AND AUSTRIANS PROPOSE NEW PEACE TERMS.

WANT NO INDEMNITIES

Neither is Annexation Mentioned in Note Which is Being Prepared, Amsterdam Learns.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Amsterdam, Oct. 9.—A new peace offer from Austria and the Germans will soon be made containing terms which make no mention of annexations and indemnities, according to a Berlin dispatch today. The telegram quoted the Deutches Tages Zietung as its authority. This information, if correct, means that the peace adherents in the German Reichstag have won a victory for peace on the basis of status quo ante and that the pan-Germanists have been vanquished.

London, Oct. 9.—The French have joined the British in a gigantic push by which the Allies are trying to hurl the Germans back from the Belgian coast, it is announced today. The British in conjunction with their Allies on the left attacked the Germans over a wide front northeast and east of Ypres and satisfactory progress has been made General Haig wires.

Heavy fighting continues, the armies lunging through rain and across fields treacherous with deep, sticky mud. The Allied troops assaulted the German positions near Ypres on the Menin road and thence northward past Beselacre, Broodseinde and Poelcahelle. The attacks followed a violent bombardment of German trenches.

COAL SUPPLY IS REDUCED

Shortage of Cars Cuts Down Production to 70 per Cent Is Estimate.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Car shortage leads labor troubles as a factor in reducing the country's coal supply. Figures compiled by the geological survey just made public estimate that the car shortage has reduced the coal output 10 per cent, while labor troubles have cut it down 9 per cent.

In the last six weeks labor troubles have cost the country, it is declared, more than 1,700,000 tons of coal, the amount of one day's output of all the soft coal mines in the country.

Production during the week ending with Sept. 22 fell to less than 70 per cent of capacity.

NEW WAR TAX AFFECTS ALL

Nearly Everything Classed as a Luxury Must Bring in Its Mite—Effective Oct. 4.

Have you figured your war taxes?

This has become a new method of salutation, for the War Tax Law affects nearly every person in the country, rich and poor. Paying of taxes to the federal government, limited before entirely to the rich, has now become a matter of interest to almost every one. Almost every person now must pay war taxes, directly or indirectly, on everything under the broad classification of luxuries.

When the wise ones at Washington designed a war revenue bill to raise about 2½ billion dollars a year, they provided no key by which the average citizen could solve the puzzle.

Nearly every luxury known to the American man and woman is taxed, and many things that very on necessities, such as smoking toabcco and chewing gum.

Uncle Sam has placed no premium on large families. The only exception made is that unmarried men pay on incomes more than $1,000. Married men pay on $2,000 and more.

The internal revenue collector for this district, says the Kansas City Star, has as yet received no detailed instructions from Washington on the new law. He has been notified that the tax on cigarettes, cigars and liquors went into effect October 4, and that was about all. An inventory is being made of all tobacco and liquor stocks in this district for the purpose of taxation.

Increase in Some Lines.

There is a tendency already among dealers in some lines to raise prices, more especially on liquors and tobaccos. The owners of soda fountains are affected, as soft drinks and grape juice will be taxed one cent a gallon, and also syrups and extracts used in mixing.

Manufacturers of motor cars must pay a 3 per cent tax, as must the makers of sporting goods, jewelry, musical instruments and cameras. For telephone and telegraph messages costing over fifteen cents tax of five cents is levied. Insurance of nearly every kind is affected, and the person who travels must pay a tax on his railroad ticket and on his Pullman fare.

Bank checks payable other than on sight or demand and promissory notes, bonds, issues of capital stock and conveyance papers must each pay their share in the expenses of the war.

These are some of the things on which the ordinary business man must pay a war tax. For the most part the law relating to these articles became effective October 4. The big business men and the wealthy have additional troubles with excess profit taxes, graduated income and corporation taxes and special taxes for certain kinds of business.

Women In The War

By G. KAY SPENCER

Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands

Let us look back to the 31st of August, 1880. The day is fair, with a genial sun flashing in through the windows of the little Dutch homes.

Through every city and village in Holland an inordinate bustle and hurry is worrying among the scrupulously neat Dutch burgeoise. Wives and mothers are busy cleaning chubby little Dutch lads and lassies till faces shine and wide blue eyes wonder what holiday is being put on the calendar. Merchants are casting the Dutch colors to the winds and the Dutch fleets and forts are beginning to fire heavy salutes.

As the people anxiously count the guns of the salutes a child is born to the queen. It is her first, and the people are going into ecstacles for the child will be heir to the Netherlands throne.

Is it a boy? The nation will convulse itself with rejoicing over the little prince.

Is it a girl? A discordant note will manifest itself in the merrymaking and the guns will fire only fifty-one rounds instead of the one hundred and five which will welcome a prince.

So the people count the guns.

Forty-eight, forty-nine, fifty, fifty-one—and they wait for the next round. All is suspense! Will the guns fire off again.

As the seconds pass and the guns remain silent, the Dutch realize that a girl has been born to the queen. It was a girl who was heir to the Dutch throne then—"only a girl!"

Queen Wilhelmina's subjects now look back on their disappointment with a smile. "If we had only known!" they say. "We understand now that our feelings were at all 'juist.'" They would not exchange their sovereign for a king on any account, for the Queen Wilhelmina has proven a monarch entirely to the Dutch taste.

At the beginning of hostilities in the great war the Netherlands were immediately placed in a delicate position. The least favor, humanitarian or otherwise, shown to one of the warring powers promptly brought demands for reciprocal concessions or favor from the opposing nations.

The Queen recommended to her Cabinet that all the defenses of the nation be mobilized. The Cabinet, always acting in conjunction with their monarch, called all the defensive forces to the colors. The country was isolated from the warring nations by a Dutch ring of steel. The forts were manned and an electrified ring of barbed wire stretched practically practically around the kingdom. The Netherlands troops were completely mobilized and prepared for all eventualities before the armies of the powers were brought up to war footing.

The Queen has refrained from all ceremonial functions since the month of August, 1914. All her officers and advisors are met under informal conditions. Consonant with her position she confines her mode of living to the utmost plainness.

The Queen's consort, Prince Henry, is seldom heard from. His personality is completely subordinated to the overwhelming power of the Queen.

Not only does she keep up the right spirit in her armies by appearing among the troops on every possible occasion, now here, then there, at parades, at military sport meetings, at mimic warfare in camps and barracks and all along the frontiers, even to the most distant outposts, but she also finds time to encourage by inspection of factories and workshops in all the industrial districts, by visiting the shops in The Hague, Amsterdam and Rotterdam.

At the outbreak of the war she developed a marvelous secret service to trail English and German spies. She is honorary commander-in-chief of the Netherlands army, and is in the saddle for hours at a stretch. She wears an officer's uniform and rides astride.

When the United States entered the war the Queen of the Netherlands took a firm grasp of her relief work in the occupied portions of Belgium and directed a number of Dutch students to prepare to fill relief committee positions. Before this the Netherlands harbored Belgian refugees to the number of 800,000.

At the Dutch naval manoeuvers in September, 1916, she reviewed her fleets from a submarine and twice went down for several hours.

French women shrug their shoulders in despair when they contrast the frocks and hats a queen might wear with those actually worn by the Dutch Queen. Her garments are all designed for comfort in preference to effect.

She is reported to have stated at the conclusion of the late army manoeuvers: "I intend to carry always in my heart the words of my beloved father—that the House of Orange can never, never do enough for Holland."

WILL SING "THE CREATION"

Newly Organized Oratorio Society Will Soon Announce Date of First Public Appearance.

"The Creation," will be the first public offering of the newly organized oratorio society, a first rehearsal being held last night in recital hall at the Conservatory of Music. That genuine interest is being taken in the work of the society was indicated in the large attendance, fully as many being on hand to take up the work as came at the first meeting a week ago. Marcus Nielsen, director, said this morning that he was greatly pleased with the manner in which local singers were taking hold and was enthusiastic at the zeal shown on the part of individual singers.

Mr. Nielsen said that while it was a little early yet to announce a date for the first appearance, a date would be selected at the next meeting, perhaps, while singers for the solo parts will be secured as early as possible.

WRITER'S PEN IS FREAKISH

There Have Been Many Instances of Authors Mechanically Saying Something Not Intended.

Many, if not most, writers have had to bewail the occasional freakishness of the pen in putting down on paper something very different from that intended by its author, says a writer in the Westminster Gazette. Readers of Sir George Trevelyan's "Life of Macaulay" will recall the historian's horror when, too late, he discovered that he had written in the Edinburgh Review that "it would be unjust to estimate Goldsmith by 'The Vicar of Wakefield,' or Scott by 'The Life of Napoleon,'" when he really intended to say that it would be unjust to estimate Goldsmith by his "History of Greece." There was, too, an amusing slip of the pen perpetrated by the grave Sir Archibald Alison in including Sir Peregrine Pickle instead of Sir Peregrine Maitland among the pallbearers at the duke of Wellington's funeral.

Another striking instance of the pen mechanically writing something not intended came under notice the other day on the title page of a reprint of a once famous book, Jane Porter's "Scottish Chiefs." This edition, published some years ago by a well-known London house, describes Miss Porter as "author of 'Pride and Prejudice,' 'Sense and Sensibility,' etc., etc!" Doubtless the Christian name of "Jane" induced the slip. All remember, and nearly all—Charlotte Bronte was one notable exception—love Jane Austen; not so many remember Jane Porter.

GROW POTATOES FROM SEED

Experts of University of Washington Use White Fruiting Berry Which Has Almost Disappeared.

In an effort to restore the old-fashioned potato seed, an experiment is being made in the garden of the University of Washington. The white fruiting berry of the potato, which was found everywhere a generation ago and has now almost disappeared, was used to plant a patch, and the fruiting potato plants are being raised.

With them have been planted a number of potato tubers in the usual way, and the latter have grown much more rapidly than the plants which have developed from the seeds. The object in seeking to produce potato seed again is that crossing of strains can be secured in this way, leading to a more wholesome condition of the plant. When propagation is only by the roots there is no chance for cross-fertilization, and the same strain of potato will in time give out.

The experiment is being conducted under the direction of Assistant Prof. John W. Hotson of the department of botany.

Boy Builds Locomotive.

A miniature railroad locomotive, complete in every detail, which has attracted the attention of the railroad officials of several Pacific coast lines, is the handiwork of a boy living in Portland, Ore.

The tiny tocomotive, only 45 inches in length, was built to test a new invention of his on a fire box. It is operated by steam, generated by oil fuel, and is equipped with airbrakes, an interior throttle and reverse levers and gears.

The engineering department of the Southern Pacific company borrowed the model and figured out its weight, power, and all other statistics in the same manner that they would figure on a full-sized locomotive. To their surprise, they found that the tiny engine developed one-quarter horsepower, and on a level track had a hauling capacity of one and a quarter tons.

A Nose Like a Hound.

Sheriff Frank Cushman says that if he hadn't a "nose like a hound" he would have lost two of his prisoners, says a Belfast (Me.) dispatch. He is jailer as well as sheriff, and in making the rounds of the jail he smelled fresh paint. He followed the scent to the cell occupied by Leroy Carter, who is serving the last of a jail sentence before beginning a two-year term in state prison for breaking and entering. Carter and Winnie Crocker, sentenced for larceny, occupied the same cell.

He found that the men had sawed off a bar at the window and replaced it with a broom handle painted black, having found some paint in the jail corridor, and another bar was nearly sawed off. They were evidently waiting for a favorable time to make a break.

The prisoners were placed in separate cells.

Phonographs in Air.

The phonograph is proving a useful adjunct to observation officers on duty in the air. These officers, forced to keep their field-glasses continually on the positions they are observing, have found considerable difficulty in making notes of details as quickly as they see them. Observation airplanes are now fitted with a registering phonograph into which the officers speak through an acoustic tube. Thus all the points the airmen have noted are correctly recorded for future use.

Not Much Impressed.

"You told me you would give me your answer tonight."

"Did I really do that?" asked the popular beauty.

"Good heavens! Have you forgotten that I asked you to marry me?"

"Why—er—while the maid was doing my hair I kept thinking there was something or other I had promised to tell you tonight, but I couldn't remember what it was."

PEGGY'S PROPOSAL

By E. HOLLAND.

"Oh, Peggy, have you heard Captain Neely's offer?" was screeched by a bevy of veranda beauties as Margaret Randall joined them.

"Offer of what?"

"Oh, gracious, girls, tell her!"

"Why, the captain has offered——," began one of the damsels.

"You mistake, my dear young lady," interrupted the captain. "I offer nothing. But I have signified my willingness to consider any or all offers made me. You see, Miss Peggy," said he, turning toward the late arrival, who, although far from being beautiful, ruled them by right of brightness, her wit and her inexhaustible resources as an entertainer. "I am disgusted with the way you young ladies are neglecting your leap year advantages, and I will wager that not one of you has made an offer of marriage this year. Have you now?"

"Nothing but the awful dread of being refused has deterred us, captain," answered Miss Randall. "Think of our feelings, when after laying our hearts and fortunes at your feet you refuse to listen."

"That's just the contingency I have been providing for. The very point we were discussing when you joined us and I said that to every girl I refused this year I would give a Jersey cow. I've a fine drove of them, you know, and it's no more than right that there should be some little consolation prize offered."

"That's not so bad; but great heavens, captain!" exclaimed one of the younger men. "Have you the least idea of what you are liable to get into?"

The group on the veranda broke up and Peggy, together with a half dozen of the young people, went outside to arrange for the theatricals, leaving to the rest the discussion of the eccentric bachelor's latest.

The end of the season came and found the captain still open to engagements and he confided to one of the young ladies that he was thinking seriously of settling down lest he might make the mistake of walking clear through the wood and then at last picking up a crooked stick.

"You accept whatever offers tonight, captain," said she mischievously. It was the night of the last dance of the season.

Captain Neely, who was not a dancing man, promenaded the veranda with a combination of blonde hair and pink muslin on his arm.

"Well, Peggy, why don't you begin; surely you have heard this thing done times enough to know how?"

She had dropped his arm and the joke as soon as they were out of sight of the group on the veranda, but he insisted on keeping up the conversation as it had started out.

Miss Randall was generally regarded as a young woman without a vulnerable point; stone-hearted in fact. In reality she was a girl of unusually high ideals and probably because she had so much to give she expected much in return. Not perfection but her ideal of manhood was a noble one and Captain Neely at times seemed to her to fulfill it more than any man she had yet known.

It always seemed to her that she never appeared to such poor advantage as when with him for then all the ability as a conversationalist, with which she was credited, seemed to desert her and she felt that to him she must appear a most uninteresting person.

Now she dared not let him see that she was afraid to go on with the farce, so in the gayest manner she began again just as they came upon a seat among the trees into which the captain deliberately threw himself, leaving her standing: "My adorable James—isn't that the way they usually begin?"

"Very good," was the answer, "but I positively refuse to listen to any proposal unless the suitor gets down on his knees."

"You base man, you evidently mean to luxuriate in the situation, but I can't go down on my knees here. I'll soil my dress."

Captain Neely gravely spread his pocket handkerchief on the ground in front of him and imperatively motioned her to kneel, and that she did, and in the most approved voice of suppressed emotion began:

"My adorable James; while deeply conscious of my great unworthiness—"

"Don't mention it."

"—I must utter the words that have so long trembled upon my lips—I—I—."

"Well, utter them."

"—May I dare believe that the feeling I entertain for you is in a measure reciprocated, and that at no distant time I may have the unutterable happiness of calling my own one whose welfare so entirely fills my soul and whose slightest wish will ever be my law?"

"You may," gravely answered the beloved one and he bent forward to raise the accepted suitor from her knees.

"Oh, you promised you would refuse," and Peggy looked as though a cold shower bath had suddenly descended upon her.

"Promised! I promised nothing of the kind. I merely said what I would do in case I refused. But, you see, I do not refuse, I accept."

Much Depends on Family.

It doesn't take much to make a whole family happy if it is the kind of family that isn't expecting too much to start out with.

FIRST NEWSPAPER IN CAMP

The Post Exchange Makes Its Appearance at Allentown, Pa., Published by Army Men.

Allentown, Pa., Oct. 9.—The Post-Exchange, the weekly paper published by the men of the army ambulance training camp here, is one of the first, if not the first paper to be published in any of the camps since the United States entered the war.

It is a six-page, eight column paper and appears each Saturday morning. The staff of six men editing it is made up of W. W. Faries, University of Pennsylvania, editor; William C. Moss, University of Virginia, managing editor; Basil L. Walters, city editor, University of Indiana; Clifford T. Warner, sporting editor, University of Indiana; David Kelley, University of Michigan, business manager; Sam Botsker, New York University, advertising manager.

The paper has its field among the 6,000 college men in the training camp and has a circulation of 4,000 copies a week. The men buy the paper and afterwards send it home as a "letter." Advertising sells at forty cents an inch and is regarded as a good investment both by the merchants of Allentown and national advertisers.

The pages of the paper are enlivened by snappy features, art work and the latest camp news. When the camp foot ball games are played on Friday afternoon, the paper makes its appearance as an "extra," carrying the story of the game, play by play, in less than half an hour after the close of the game.

The men who edit the sheet are relieved from all drill duties and spend their entire time down town in an Allentown newspaper office, where the Post-Exchange is printed. Here the ambulance boys get the regular newspaper atmosphere, with paste, typwriters, shears and the noise of the presses in the pressroom below.

Rat Tails at 10c Each.

Ogden, Utah, Oct. 9.—Ogden City school boys are reaping a harvest of spare change as a result of the health department's bounty of ten cents each on rats. Fearing that the rodents might overrun the neighborhood adjacent to the city dump at Monroe and Twentieth streets, the commissioners decided upon the ten cent bounty to be paid for each rat "tail" brought in, as a precautionary measure against possible disease. One youthful "chaser" has already collected for 140 "tails."

Cows Cause Broken Leg.

Hereafter, when cows trespass in the cornfield of Otto Risser, who lives four miles south of town on the Savannah road, Mr. Risser will probably allow them to trespass to their hearts content, for yesterday afternoon while engaged in driving them from his field, he tripped over a corn stalk and fell, breaking his leg just above the ankle. The broken member will keep Mr. Risser confined to his home for some days.

Goes To Funston As Cook.

Frank Smart left this afternoon for Camp Funston at Fort Riley, Kan., where he has secured the job of cooking for the drafted boys there. He will receive $90 a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hunt and A. H. Hunt of the Harmony neighborhood are in Maryville on business today.

When Itching Stops

There is one safe, dependable treatment that relieves itching torture and skin irritation almost instantly and that cleanses and soothes the skin.

A little zemo, the penetrating, satisfying liquid, is all that is needed, for it banishes most skin eruptions and makes the skin soft, smooth and healthy.

GROW FAT ON WAR BREAD

Britons Declare It Gives Better Digestion and Is Healthier Than Wheat Bread.

London, Oct. 9.—The English appear to be growing fat on war bread. An English newspaper publishes the following:

"Although I hate it," writes a correspondent in Surrey, "war bread seems to fatten me, and my weight has increased by several pounds. Yet I am eating not much more than half the bread I used to eat before the war, and also less of other foods.

A doctor explained that this may be quite true. "Anyone who keeps his eyes open in the streets will notice that men, women and children are clearly better ncurished than ever. No doubt," he said, "there is a good deal of indigestion from bad bread, but even people who digest it badly, and dislike it, too, grow fatter and physically stronger. This is especially noticeable in spare men of middle age. Possibly the explanation is that we were eating more bread before than we could digest. Perhaps, too, the mixture of grains in bread is proving more nourishing than the pure wheaten loaf; the stomach likes variety, and the people who do the best intellectual work are those who feed on all available foodstuffs."

Spend 3 Million on Roads.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—Highway building will be accentuated by the war, rather than stopped, State officials announce. Plans have been completed for the building of 800 miles of paved roads next year, at an estimated expenditure of nearly $3,000,000. One road will extend from the Great Lakes to the Ohio river and three roads will traverse the State from the Ohio to the Illinois lines. The Lincoln Highway and the Dixie Highway will be improved.

Canning At Home

Pumpkin.

This is the time to can your pumpkin for the Thanksgiving Day pie.

Peel the pumpkin in whatever way is easiest, remove the stringy seed portion and cut into small pieces. Put these with a very little water in a large kettle or boiler and boil down, stirring occasionally to prevent burning until as thick as apple butter. Fill the hot jars at once, put on rubbers and partly seal the tops.

Sterilize in boiling water two hours or in water seal outfit one and one-half hours, or in five to ten pounds' steam pressure one hour, or in ten to fifteen pounds' steam pressure for 45 minutes. Finish sealing the tops and store in a cool place, dark if possible.

Dried Pumpkins. — Cut the pumpkin crosswise into thin, circular strips and take off the skin and the inside fibrous part around the seeds. String these strips and hang them in a warm room or in the sun, protected from insects, or put them on plates in the oven, leaving the door open. When dry but still leathery, pack in tin or pasteboard boxes and seal with gum to make the packages air-tight.

Squash—The squash is as serviceable in making "pumpkin" pies as is the pumpkin, and, in fact, it is usually richer than pumpkin. It should be canned and dried like pumpkin.

Pumpkin Marmalade. — Cut eight pounds of yellow pumpkins into small pieces, and, after nine pounds of sugar have been mixed with them, leave to stand for twelve hours; then peel six oranges and as many lemons and boil the rind of both for two hours, changing the water two or three times. Cut off as much of the white part of the rind as possible to prevent the mixture from becoming too bitter ;then chop the remainder of the rinds, add with the juice and boil from two to three hours. Seal and keep in a dark place.

BIG SALARIES OF RULERS

Pay of President of the United States Is Meager Compared With Sum Received By Many.

Some folks are apt to think that the President of the United States receives an enormous salary—$75,000 a year, with $25,000 annually for traveling expenses and free house rent. But when his salary is compared to salaries received by foreign rulers and presidents the amount is certainly small. King George of Great Britain gets $3,105,000 a year, and recently he was "granted" $65,000 a year more, because he said he could not maintain his family on his salary, and "struck" for more. The German emperor gets no salary; only a grant of $650,000 a year. But as king of Prussia he gets $3,150,000 a year and he says this is clearly not enough. The king of Italy is another monarch who has recently hinted at the meager salary paid him; he receives $3,200,000 a year. The czar of Russia, when there was a czar, received a salary of $8,179,000. The salaries of all the other monarchs pale before this income. The king of Spain receives only $1,800,000 a year. The king of the Belgians gets $875,000 a year; the king of Denmark $345,000; Queen Wilhelmina receives $525,000. The only president of a republic comparable at all with ours is the president of France; he receives $240,000 a year, from which he pays his own traveling expenses and entertainments. Hence, the president of the United States receives the smallest salary of any ruler of a nation in the world.

NEWS FROM ALL NORTHWEST MISSOURI

An unusual record of physical soundness was found among Andrew county young men last week, says the Savannah Reporter, when from forty-five men examined only two were rejected as physically unfit.

Planted and grown to maturity since the floods of last spring a Daviess county squash is attracting much notice at the Gallatin stock show. It resembles a "meteor" in appearance, says the North Missourian, and weighs 122 pounds. It was grown on the farm of County Treasurer Moses Mann.

Realizing the eagerness of the soldier boys to receive letters from home folks and old friends and the importance of accurate and complete addresses to insure the delivery of such letters, a Gallatin druggist, G. G. Murray, has undertaken to compile and maintain up-to-date a list of the complete addresses of all the Daviess county men in the service, whether at the front or in training camps.

After sixteen days in training at Ft. Sheridan, F. M. Harrison, editor of the Gallatin North Missourian, was discharged because of a crooked right arm. Several years ago the arm was broken at the elbow and a partially stiff joint was the result. A Democratic friend on hearing of Harrison's discharge declared that he could have told him before trying to enter the service that any editor who had hammered out Republican dope for three years was bound to have a crooked arm and that he was surprised that more crookedness had not shown up.

Tarkio is to have free delivery of mail beginning January 1. Two carriers will be employed, making two deliveries a day in the residence section and three a day in the business section.

The Tarkio high school, according to the Avalanche, has just made an addition to its science library. The new volume, considered highly valuable as a reference book, is the newly issued 288-page catalog of the Hereford cattle sale to be held this week by the Rankins.

Because there was no strainer on the smoke stack of the threshing engine a spark beat the workmen to the oats stacks on the Chas. Million farm near Rock Port last week and an $800 loss resulted.

Death from an unusual combination of circumstances came suddenly to Thos. M. Botts a farmer near Wheeling, Livingston county, last week. Botts and his farm hand were renewing the carbide in the acetylene lighting plant at the Botts home and before they could get the cover on the tank a sudden dash of rain fell. The water entering the carbide caused an explosion which instantly killed the farmer and severely injured his assistant.

Put away the Palm Beach breeches, put away the short-sleeved shirt. Winter 'round the corner screeches, cold and soggy is the dirt. Take the catalogs and wonder what your undershirt will cost; ask yourself just where in thunder summer wages have been lost.—Mrs. O. W. Curry in Bethany Republican.

The buying of stockers by the Clinton county cattle feeders has begun, says the Lathrop Optimist. The largest individual purchase so far this fall was made yesterday by W. W. Hord and consisted of 400 head of steers weighing 1,000 to 1,100 pounds each.

An interurban train, speeding along this side of Liberty killed a big hawk in a very unusual manner the other day, says the Excelsior Springs Call. The bird crossed in front of the car then started to recross but was caught and thrown to the earth, dead. The motorman in trying to see what became of the bird lost his cap and he then had a good excuse to back up. The bird measured four feet from tip to tips of its wings.

A Duroc-Jersey porker traveled from Clay county to the Kansas City market last week and brought its owner, Parker McConnell, of Kearney, the unusually long price of $127.05.

Mule Day at Liberty, October 1, was very successful, reports the Advance. Streets, alleys and sale yards were crowded with mule traders all day and many animals changed owners. Mule colts brought all the way from $50 to $140 with the average price near $90.

Because he sassed the operator John F. Metzger's telephone was taken out by the Plattsburg exchange. Then he carried the matter to the public utilities commission and a recent decision by that body ordered the telephone reinstated.

A radical change in the policy of William Jewell College at Liberty was marked last week by the action of the trustees in opening several courses of instruction for women. It is thought though not officially announced, says the Advance, that this is but the first step in a plan to make William Jewell a co-educational institution.

The old tradition that a gun is dangerous though having neither lock, nor barrel, came near being borne out by a strange and fatal accident near Carrollton last week. Tom Wallace, aged 80, started out with a shotgun to shoot a crow. As he carried the gun before him it was accidentally discharged and kicked him in the stomach with such force that he died a few days later.

On her way from her farm home to Mercer to attend high school Mary Stockman has sold enough watermelons of her own raising to pay her tuition throughout the school year.

Just to satisfy themselves as to the merits of a fancy hog house away up in Central Iowa, two Hopkins farmers made a 300-mile motor trip the other day, says the Journal, and found a hog house which cost several thousand dollars and in which one thousand hogs were fattened last winter.

How sending boys away to college can be viewed as a means of making money seems at first unbelievable; but Mack Jones tells the Maysville Herald that such is the fact in his experience. He finds that it costs less to send the boys away to school than to keep them supplied with gasoline and repairs for the family motor car at home.

A DeKalb county man who, according to the Maysville Herald, knows very little about what it is to have wealth lying at his feet, had a sudden awakening to a neglected opportunity the other day. Buyers in search of walnut logs came to his place but were told there wasn't a thing of value on the premises. They held to an optimistic view, however, and proceeded to find a tree which brought the surprised owner $45.

Last week a new petition for school consolidation was filed in Holt county asking that five districts be merged at New Point. The five districts have a combined enumeration of 200 pupils and a total taxable valuation of $513,-160.

A new road and new bridge across the Nodaway river between Fillmore and New Point is asked for by citizens of both Holt and Andrew counties. Andrew county has ordered the new highway opened to the river and the movement now awaits upon the action of the neighboring county's court.

For three mules—sorrel ones—$900 was paid at Fairfax last week to Roy Hinkle of Bigelow.

A narrow escape from death was the experience of Carman Sipes, a Holt county boy, according to the Oregon Sentinel. While watering a horse he got the halter rope looped around his feet in such manner that, when the horse became frightened, it jerked him off his feet and dragged him over the water tank and about the lots and even onto the Burlington railroad right-of-way before he succeeded in freeing himself.

The first big corn story of the season comes from Princeton and is vouched for by the Post. U. S. Austin brings to town a perfectly developed ear of corn 15 inches long.

Kansas City Stock Letter.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Oct. 9.—Cattle received yesterday amounted to 37,000 head, market slow on killing grades and weak to 15c lower, stockers and feeders more nearly steady. Hogs yesterday 8,000, market steady, top $19.50. Sheep and lambs 15,000, market steady, lambs to killers $18.10.

Beef Cattle.

The liberal supply yesterday was lacking in quality, and contained no choice to prime steers. Other markets had heavy runs and it was a slow deal. Country buyers continued their good demand for fleshy feeders, which helped keep packer buyers in line, and prevented serious decline. One train from Oregon and three trains of Western Slope Colorados were included, bulk of the supply coming from Kansas and Texas. Butcher cattle held up firm all last week, but that kind slipped a little today. Heavy runs are expected for another week or two, with a low average of quality. Anything with outstanding merit sells at a strong price regardless of the general market condition.

Stockers and Feeders.

Stock steers at $6.50 to $9.50, a few around $10, feeders at $8.75 to $11.00, fleshy steers up to $14.00, is the way country grades sell. A ten car drove of good 1,100lb feeders from Kansas sold at $11.25 yesterday morning, some 950lb feeders at $10.50. Oklahoma buyers are taking many cheap stock steers at $6.50 to $7.25 about the best bargain offered now.

Hogs.

The campaign to depress hog prices did not make much headway last week. It is still in the minds of the buying side, and was launched afresh today, with announcement that lower prices would prevail every day this week. Good outside orders started prices off steady, and salesmen were able to hold them steady during the session, top $19.50, medium weight hogs $19.45, light weights $19.25, bulk of sales $18.60 to $19.40. These prices were effective the greater part of last week, with tops up to $19.65 at the best time. Pig prices remain firm, most sales around $17.50, a few up to $18.00.

Stockers and Feeders.

Lamb prices made big gains last week but finished slightly below the best time. The market is steady today with best Western lambs to killers at $18.10, plain natives $17.35, some fair feeding lambs at $17.75, ewe lambs to country buyers quotable up to $18.35, some of these at $18.50 last week. Breeding ewes are firm, some 90lb breeders late last week at $17.50, hard mouth ewes at $13.00 and upwards, feeding ewes $10.50 to $12.00, old fat ewes $10.25 to $11.75.

Kansas City, Oct. 9.—"He moved 49 times in ten years," Mrs. Etta Dearinger charges in her divorce petition here.

Any day was moving day with them she alleges, and each time they had less to move, until finally, after an installment house had taken back their furniture all they carried away was the clothing they wore.

She alleges her husband often would leave the house to go to the grocery store and came back with a moving wagon and it got on her nerves. She wants $10 a week alimony and custody of the three children.

BOONE COUNTY GOES AFTER THEM

Has Complete Organization To Campaign for Liberty Bonds.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Columbia, Oct. 9.—Boone county has one of the most complete county organizations in the Liberty Loan campaign in the Eighth Federal Reserve District. Chairman C. S. Hunt and his associates have organized an executive, publicity, speakers,' farmers,' county schools,' merchants,' physicians' and Missouri University students' committees. Meetings are held in every community in the county at which speakers well versed in the Liberty Loan propaganda address the crowds.

For alleged breach of contract Ruth Law is the defendant in a damage suit in which Bethany asks for $25,-000 because the aviatrix failed to appear before the thousands who gathered there last month to witness her flights.

Bethany is busy organizing a band, scarcely a week after bidding Godspeed to the fine organization of nineteen musicians whom that city sent to the Atlantic Coast to take ship as Fleet Marine Band.

Want Ads

OH, yes. I'd like to sell that old piano. We haven't any use for it, and it does take up a lot of room." "Well, there are lots of people who would be willing to buy it if they knew it was for sale. Why don't you write a little ad and put in the paper?" "I write an ad? Why, I don't know how. I wouldn't know how to begin."

The above conversation is purely and wholly imaginative, Yet it has a counterpart in real life right in this county many times a year. The right sort of a want ad will sell that old piano, or anything else that is salable. And the right sort of want ad isn't at all hard to "get up." You say in print just about what you'd say to a prospective purchaser face to face. You might say it this way;

OUR OLD SQUARE PIANO takes up room that we have other use for, so we'll sell it quite cheap. It's a Steinway; in good order, with fine tone. Come see it and make an offer. Mrs. X———, ——— Madison Avenue.

Now, there isn't anything very wonderful about that ad, is there? No mystery, no clap-trap. Just a plain statement of what you have for sale, why and where. That is all there is to want ad advertising—except that the ad be inserted in a good newspaper. Then it is practically certain to get results
